Susan McCallum Speech

with whom?

Although the financial reward is less than competitive, Anaheim Bulletin journalist, Susan McCallum said ~~that~~ she enjoys the diversity of assignments and the <sup>SP</sup> comradery of the small staff that she works with. The 1984 CSUF graduate spoke about her experiences as a ~~News~~ and ~~Feature~~ writer to a group of university students last Wednesday.

McCallum described the ~~Police~~ beat as a "fun beat" and said that large newspapers don't always pass along the more interesting details to their readers. Among the "interesting details" that the large papers missed was the story of a 20-year-old who was arrested at Disneyland for molesting Minnie Mouse. <sup>WHEN?</sup> The suspect allegedly "touched her where he shouldn't have." With a small paper there are fewer stories to cover but a greater potential for getting involved in the "juicy" stories.

McCallum gave her audience of prospective journalists tips on how to handle City Council public relations people and encouraged them to do the research necessary for good stories.
